Preparing for Christmas Holidays

Many of you lucky families will be going away this Christmas so here is a few pointers to make the silly season not so unsettling for your pets.

1. If you haven't already booked pet accommodation... ring ASAP. This includes pet sitters.
2. Double check you can find your pets vaccination card... or ring us for a replacement one.
3. Ask the kennel if you can take your own food... this reduces the risk of tummy upsets.
4. If your pet is on medication... write down the instructions clearly.
5. Don't forget to apply tick prevention before leaving Your pet.

MORUYA'S RODEO

New Years Day, what better way is there to start a new year.

A fun and exciting way to spend an afternoon with the family and support a local community event.

Don't let Christmas goodwill hurt your pet

We want the holiday to be a happy time for you and your pet, not a time for an emergency visit to your veterinarian. The food and decorations that make the holidays so much fun for us can be dangerous for your pet. This time of the year we see a lot of pets that have ingested food and other articles which are potentially dangerous for them.

Avoid giving pets the following food items:

Alcohol, chocolate, coffee, ham (ham fat & ham bones), grapes and raisins, macadamia nuts, onions, spoiled uncooked meat, fish and poultry.

Other items ingested by pets at Christmas time include:

Fish hooks, sinkers and line, Corn cobs, plastic or foil wrap, tobacco products, meat soaked strings from rump roasts are also enticing.

TICK WATCH

The Christmas and New Year period is always the time of the year we see a lot of animals succumb to tick paralysis.

Make sure any animals visiting over this period are adequately covered with a tick prevention. Especially animals visiting from inland areas where ticks are not a problem.

If your pet is showing signs of tick paralysis, it needs immediate, urgent veterinary treatment.
